Chronicle Graphics Releases OnePager Pro Version 3.1

Upgraded project and schedule management software includes ability to track critical path in a Gantt chart.

CENTENNIAL, COLO – October 27, 2009 – Chronicle Graphics announced today the 3.1 release of its OnePager Pro software, which creates information-packed timeline snapshots using data from Microsoft Project.

OnePager Pro 3.1 allows project managers and schedulers to visually represent the critical path of a project directly on a Gantt chart by highlighting where the critical path intersects each task in the snapshot and focusing attention on activities that must be completed on time. The critical path feature is an expansion upon OnePager Pro's existing ability to display key project data dynamically, including baselines and percent complete for each task.

In addition to critical path support, OnePager Pro 3.1 also supports advanced legend capabilities, which enable users to define custom color schemes and visual effects based on resources, teams, types of tasks, or even sub-projects. An expansion of color and font capabilities rounds out OnePager Pro's ability to let project managers quickly and easily summarize project schedules for their teams and stakeholders.

OnePager Pro marks the first Chronicle Graphics product to hit the market in the 3.1 release cycle. Chronicle Graphics anticipates releasing version 3.1 of its OnePager Express product for Microsoft Excel later this year.
